STATLETON. July 3, 1852.

Dear Sir—The Herald and other papers of the sity, in giving accounts of the accident at Staten Island, say that the Corener's Jury gave a verdict that death was caused by the accident breaking of the bridge. This is not the case. The jury retused to may that it was accident in breaking, and the words "accident by breaking," were not used. The jury inquired only what was the case. Of death, it being too late to see the bridge and many of the brinds of the dead wished the belies. The jury left the brinds of the dead wished the belies. The jury left the brinds of the dead wished the belies. The jury left the bridge of the bridge of the county to examine in full, and find out whether there was blame to be fastened on any one. The jury returned a verdict as follows—"That the bodies found came to their death by drowning, caused by the failing or breaking of the bridge, at Vanderbilt's dock." Many of the jury saw a bridge fail some months since, at the People's terry, without causing death, and they think that if this bridge had been better sonstructed the secident would not have occurred. You will please to give this your attention in your paper, in justice to the Jury and the public. Yours truly.

JOB MOONE, and others of the Jury.

We, the undersigned, imbabitants of Staten Island, deeply sympathixing with the friends of those who lost their tives by the late accident at Vanderbilt's Landing, field it a study we owe to the public, owing to various erroneous reports, now in circulation, relative to the cause of said accident, to make a statement of the facts as they appear to us, upon an examination of the premises. The enter end of the landing plantform is supported by two claims on either side, one being of eleven sixteenths inch and the other of three-fourths inch iron, and the sole cause of the accident was the breaking of the double set of chains sustalaing one of the corners of the platform, as referred to—that it wa
